Dear Parent,

Reading to your child helps them develop their imagination and creativity. Books can take them on a journey to new places and introduce them to new ideas.

Aloha,

Imran cargó su burro, listo para ir al pueblo al otro lado de la montaña a vender su sal.

Imran loaded up his donkey, ready to go to the village over the mountain to sell his salt.

Imran amaba al burro, pero no le gustó el largo viaje con la sal pesada.

The donkey was loved by Imran, but did not like the long trip with the heavy salt.

Después de vender la sal, Imran le daba delicias al burro.

After the salt was sold, Imran would give the donkey tasty treats.

Un día, el burro cayó al río con su sal. Imran no vio que la sal había desaparecido.

One day, the donkey fell into the river with his salt.
Imran did not see that the salt had vanished.

Ese día no había mucha sal para vender. Imran pensó que tal vez se había olvidado de algo.

There was not much salt to sell that day. Imran thought that maybe he had forgot some.

El burro empezó a caer al agua en cada viaje. ¡Esto le dio menos que cargar y aún así recibió un regalo!

The donkey started falling into the water every trip. This gave him less to carry and he still got a treat!

Imran se dio cuenta de lo que estaba haciendo el astuto burro. En el siguiente viaje, Imran cargó un burro con algodón y lana.

Imran realized what the clever donkey was doing. On the next trip, Imran loaded donkey with cotton and wool.

Esta vez, cuando el burro cayó al río, ¡el algodón y la lana absorbieron mucha agua!

This time, when the donkey fell into the river, the cotton and wool soaked up a lot of water!

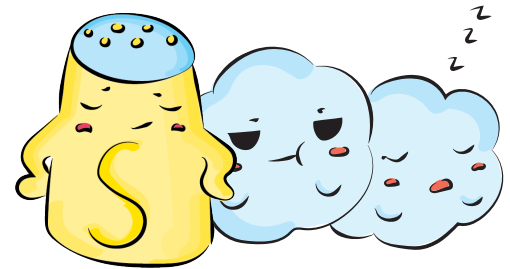

El viaje fue pesado y largo para el burro.
Había aprendido la lección y no volvió a arrojar su carga al río.

The trip was heavy and long for the donkey. He had learned his lesson and did not dump his load into the river again.
