Imran loaded up his donkey, ready to go to the village over the mountain to sell his salt.

The donkey was loved by Imran, but did not like the long trip with the heavy salt.

After the salt was sold, Imran would give the donkey tasty treats.

One day, the donkey fell into the river with his salt. Imran did not see that the salt had vanished.

There was not much salt to sell that day.
Imran thought that maybe he had forgot some.

The donkey started falling into the water every trip. This gave him less to carry and he still got a treat!

Imran realized what the clever donkey was doing. On the next trip, Imran loaded donkey with cotton and wool.

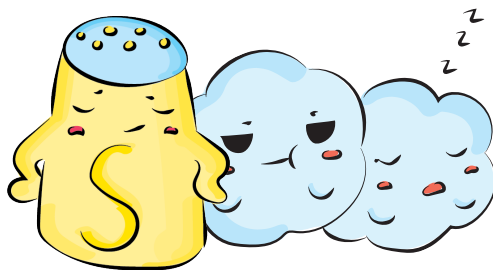

This time, when the donkey fell into the river, the cotton and wool soaked up a lot of water!

The trip was heavy and long for the donkey. He had learned his lesson and did not dump his load into the river again.
